It was impossible to do this in length owing to the old chancel being in the way, so the only alternative was to increase its width. I would also like you to notice that the chancel is not in the middle of the east end of the church, and I would suggest that the piscina in the south aisle and the niches in the pillars of the arcade on the north side are worthy of notice. The first rector of this church of whom there is a record (his name was Hervens) was instituted between 1152 and 1184, and it will be a matter of interest to all, and perhaps of surprise to many, to know that the Poet Crabbe was Rector of Evershot from 1783 to 1786. In conclusion it may be desirable to mention what has been done for this church...
